1. Only a small Soviet Air Force unit was stationed at the NEUBRANDENBURG-TROLLENHAGEN (N 54/U 67) airfield (location see Annex). Five German and two Soviet trucks loaded with building material were seen. The noise of construction work was heard from the airfield kasernes. The approach road was being widened. Repair work was being done on the lightly damaged hangars. There were no aircraft at the field.
2. Railroadmen exchanged ties near the junction of the spur track and the main railroad line. Many German laborers worked on the landing field and laid cables.
3. Small groups of Soviet Air Force soldiers often arrived at the NEUBRANDENBURG railroad station.

Comment:

The construction work on the NEUBRANDENBURG-TROLLENHAGEN airfield was previously reported. This report does not mention the extension of the runway by from 1,300 to 1,600 feet as known from previous reports. The reported motor vehicle have previously been observed in DOEBERITZ and FALKENSEE. It is assumed that the construction work is performed by component units of the III Ftr Corps.
